Earthquake preparedness: What to do - wherever you are - when the earth starts shaking

What to do when the earth actually starts to shake? An earthquake, even a big one, doesn't have to be a death sentence. It's important to be ready -- remembering a few basic things can help you avoid injury and even save your life.

The first thing to commit to memory, according to the Southern California Earthquake Center and the United States Geological Survey is: "Drop, cover and hold on."

According to the Great ShakeOut, a program about earthquake drills that teaches people how to be safe when the earth starts to shake, "drop, cover and hold on" can prompt you to remember how to protect yourself in most situations.

Generally, this means, the second you feel the jolt of an earthquake, "drop" to your knees to avoid being knocked down and be able to crawl to shelter.

"Cover" means cover your head and neck with an arm and hand. Then, if you can, find a sturdy table or desk to crawl under. If you can't find something to cover you that is sturdy, stay low and crawl to an interior wall. Stay low and bent over to cover and protect your internal organs.

"Hold on" means hold on to your shelter with one hand -- the other should still be protecting your head and neck. If you have no shelter, protect your head and neck with both arms and hands.

Protect Yourself During Earthquakes!

You may not be inside or near a desk when an earthquake happens, however. Here are more things you should know about what to do in an earthquake, depending on where you are when it begins.

The Resort in Rancho Cucamonga: New Homes Coming in the Fall

Rancho Cucamonga will see new homes priced to start under $400,000 in Fall 2019.

The Resort, billed as a bright new urban village in southeast Rancho Cucamonga, will change the way you live, will incorporate single-family residences, townhomes, apartment homes and retail.

The 160-acre community by Lewis Community Developers will incorporate a variety of builders such as The New Home Company, Van Daele Homes.

The New Home Company has planned Nova Rancho Cucamonga, a neighborhood of 135 three-story townhomes and single-stacked flats within The Resort. Nova represents an approach to homeownership which focuses on attainability through a balance of cost, space and connectivity, while offering its customers a choice in how they want to live. With construction now underway, the residences, designed by Woodley Architectural Group, will be offered in three floor plans ranging from 879 to 1,222 square feet of living space with two bedrooms and two and one half bath. With pricing anticipated to begin in the high $300,000s, Nova will offer the lowest starting price point in The Resort and surrounding areas.

Van Daele Homes will offer attached townhomes branded Enliven at The Resort. They will offer four stylish new townhome designs with up to 4 bedrooms and approximately 2,000 square feet. These 80 modern attached townhomes feature Great Rooms, Dining Areas, Gourmet Kitchens, spacious Master Suites, Offices (per plan), Bonus Rooms (per plan), and much more.

The Resort,” which will include 3,450 residential for-sale and rental units as well as non-residential uses, such as light retail, commercial services, recreation amenities and a community center. The site is a 15-minute walk from the Rancho Cucamonga Metrolink station.

The Southern California housing market hasn’t been kind to builders as of late as house hunters have switched gears and now want cheaper options.

Keck Graduate Institute: Internship Offers KGI Pharmacy Student Early Exposure to Industry

Kacey Egusa’s stay at AbbVie, a research-oriented biopharmaceutical company, was only expected to last two weeks. She traveled to AbbVie’s North Chicago headquarters in January as part of a Keck Graduate Institute (KGI) course that introduces first-year Doctor of Pharmacy (PharmD) students to the pharmaceutical industry. But she came away so impressed by AbbVie that she inquired about a summer internship. Equally impressed by Egusa, the company created one for her.

“Kacey impressed us with her tenacity and proactivity. We were able to develop a very tailored internship for her,” says Rob Pearson, national field medical director for immunology/gastroenterology at AbbVie.

As part of her summer internship, Egusa is developing an independent research project that she will present to Pearson and the rest of the medical affairs leadership team, a group that includes physicians, PharmD and PhD graduates, and nurse practitioners.

She is also helping with efforts to leverage AbbVie’s field medical team to advance the therapeutic pipeline, an assignment that Pearson explains requires her to understand key metrics and analyze what is most effective.

“Kacey is involved from a high-level perspective. She’s able to do this because she’s Kacey. We sensed that she had the ability, passion, and drive,” he says. “This is how you develop talent for the future.”

Aside from working on this initiative within medical affairs, Egusa is gaining exposure to a wide range of projects and teams.

“Kacey is working in the gastroenterology field, on some aspects of clinical trials, and on a genetic project,” says postdoctoral fellow Maggie Szakacs, who is serving as Egusa’s direct supervisor for the summer. “She is networking with people in different areas, not just medical affairs, and really seeing a broad spectrum of projects. She’s definitely learning about the whole industry experience, and she’s always willing to take initiative with anything she’s assigned.”

For Egusa, the internship is a step toward her eventual goals: She hopes to obtain a fellowship after completing her PharmD program at KGI and then pursue a career in the pharmaceutical industry.

As a California Lutheran University undergraduate, Egusa had envisioned a different future for herself. She had long planned to go to medical school after earning her bachelor’s degree in biochemistry and molecular biology. Egusa spent many hours volunteering at a hospital, which eventually led her to realize she didn’t want to become a physician after all. But the experience also enabled her to meet a mentor who taught her about the variety of roles available to pharmacists.

“I didn’t know you could have a PharmD and work in the pharmaceutical industry, especially in medical affairs,” says Egusa, who is now president elect of KGI’s chapter of the Industry Pharmacy Organization and would like to help more students obtain internships at companies like AbbVie earlier in the PharmD program.

“I want to pave the way for other KGI students to pursue their passion for the pharmaceutical industry,” she says. “This internship is providing a strong foundation for me to build on. It’s an amazing and rare opportunity as a first-year pharmacy student to be an intern at such a wonderful company, and I am extremely grateful to gain this experience.”

Seeing her at work this summer, Pearson and Szakacs are equally pleased about Egusa’s desire to return to AbbVie.

“She is demonstrating to us her capacities for the future,” says Pearson. “We’ll definitely stay in touch.”

Inland Empire 66ers: Rawhide Outduel Sixers to Even Series

The Inland Empire 66ers of San Bernardino and Visalia dueled on the mound on Wednesday at San Manuel Stadium but the Rawhide came up with clutch hits late to down the Sixers 4-2 evening a series at a game apiece.

San Bernardino, CA- The Inland Empire 66ers of San Bernardino and Visalia dueled on the mound on Wednesday at San Manuel Stadium but the Rawhide came up with clutch hits late to down the Sixers 4-2 evening a series at a game apiece. The Rawhide tied the game at two in the eighth on a pair of two out hits and then took a lead on a two-out homer to nine-hole hit Jorge Perez against IE reliever Aaron Hernandez (0-3) in the ninth.

The Rahwide (66-40, 22-18) broke a scoreless tie in the fourth when Luis Alejandro Basabe tripled to open the frame and Jose Herrera drove him home with a single to right against IE starter Cooper Criswell. The righty was strong for the Sixers as he allowed just the one run on five hits with no walks and fanned eight. Inland Empire (41

-90, 14-26) answered against Visalia starter Justin Vernia in the fifth when Spencer Griffin drilled a double, his first Cal League hit. He later scored on Gleyvin Pineda's RBI single. The Sixers took a 2-1 lead in the seventh whenFranklin Torres whammied a solo shot to open the inning; it was Torres' third dinger of the year. The Sixers failed to hold the advantage as with two outs in the eighth Basabe singled and scored the tying run on Herrera's RBI double, his third hit of the game. With two outs in the top of the ninth, Perez homered off the top of the wall in right, his third round-tripper, with a man aboard for a 4-2 lead. Breckin Williams earned his 11th save with a perfect bottom of the ninth. Cole Bartlett (8-5) was credited with the win. Neither pitching staff walked a batter while the Sixers struck out 13 batters (Visalia hurlers fanned four).

The series concludes Thursday at 7:05 pm. The contest can be seen and heard live at 66ers.com.

Fox Theater Pomona

Sat, November 2, 2019, 7:00 pm

TICKETS

A fundraising event to raise funds for The Robert and Beverly Lewis Family Cancer Care Center Endowment Fund at Pomona Valley Hospital Medical Center (PVHMC). This event is an "American Idol" type format event. 7 Finalists will compete to become the next "Singing for Survivors" Champion. All Finalists will be dedicating their performances to a cancer survivor who has touched their lives.

Amy Ashton, comedienne, Comedy Central, HBO, Netflix will emcee the event and keep guests laughing in between performances. All guests will have the opportunity to vote electronically for their favorite singer.

At PVHMC, we understand that cancer goes much deeper than just your current medical obstacles. That is why we treat the "whole patient and family", not just the disease of cancer on its own. PVHMC Foundation raises additional funds to allow anyone touched by cancer to receive information, attend classes, speak to a psycho-social counselor, transportation to treatments assistance, obtain a free wig if someone has lost their hair during chemotherapy, ALL at no charge.

If you need more information about this event, please contact Glenda Ferguson at 909.865.9139

Divas Live is the annual fundraiser for The Women's Journey Foundation. This year's performances include contestants from The Voice and American Idol. Proceeds from this concert benefit hundreds of at-risk girls every year.

The Women's Journey Foundation provides opportunities for women to enrich their lives. We create platforms for women to connect, share their experiences, get inspired and mentor others. When we value ourselves as women humanity thrives.

We are women of all ages and cultures who acknowledge the accomplishments of women leaders, authors, humanitarians, historic women, women in business, mothers/grandmothers, women who have risen above the challenges to reach their personal goals and dreams. We empower women of all ages to rise to their personal potential. Women are encouraged to celebrate their personal journey and share that journey with others.

Christian rapper Marcus Gray, known as Flame Awarded $2.7M In Katy Perry Copyright Infringement

Christian rapper Marcus Gray, known as Flame, was awarded $2.7 million in damages Thursday by a federal court jury who deemed Katy Perry's song "Dark Horse" lifted a musical passage from the rapper's earlier song "Joyful Noise."

Capitol Records was ordered to pay the largest chunk of the damages — $1.2 million — but Perry was ordered by the jury to pay $550,200 to Gray.

The remaining balance of the damage will be paid by Perry's various producers and collaborators on the song.

The federal jury decided that Katy Perry's 2013 hit "Dark Horse" lifted its underlying electric beat from a 2009 Christian rap song.

The damages phase began Tuesday with opening statements. Attorneys for Gray said "Dark Horse" brought in a total revenue of $41 million and that Gray should get a cut of that, but Perry's attorneys say the cost of producing the song and other factors need to be subtracted before any percentage can be awarded.

Gray prevailed Monday after suing Perry for copyright infringement. After a seven-day trial, his attorneys convinced the jury that the beat and instrumental lines in both songs were significantly similar.

Perry and her song's co-authors had argued the passage in question is too commonplace to copy-right and that none of them had heard "Joyful Noise" before the lawsuit was filed.

However, the song had been nominated for a Grammy and has millions of views on YouTube and Myspace.

The pop star, who recently posted a picture from Spain with media mogul David Geffen, testified during the trial, but was not in court for the damages phase, when the jury heard testimony about how much "Dark Horse" is worth.

"Dark Horse" was also nominated for a Grammy and sat at the top of the Billboard charts for four weeks.

The federal jury in downtown Los Angeles ruled that 22.5 percent of the total profits earned by "Dark Horse" could be attributed to the musical passage stolen from "Joyful Noise."

COGIC History: Evangelist/Dr. Mamie Ruth Sconiers Leonard

Evangelist/Dr. Mamie Ruth Sconiers Leonard conducted prayer and fasting Shut-Ins throughout the U.S. and out of the country for many years. For nine months they would travel to many churches regardless of the denomination where they would request for Mother and her team (her twin sister Martha Featherston, brother-in-love Deacon Kenneth Featherston, Lenonda Robinson (now oversees the ministry, and others) to conduct a three day Shut-In at their church including her home church at Greater Deliverance COGIC, Inglewood California. Although Mother Leonard has gone on to be with the Lord, she left a legacy of writing a one of a kind book not just on fasting, but how to conduct a Shut-In for churches. The ministry continues to go on, to God be the Glory. SOURCE: Facebook COGIC History Page
